Serious Accident to Rev. Nathaniel West, who lately dissolved his connection with the Central Presbyterian Church of this city, will negret to learn that he was seriously injured, in Alleghany City, Pennsylvania, last Saturday evening. While on his way to Brooklyn, New York, he stopped in Alleghany for the purpose of visiting some relatives, and became the guest of Rev. Dr. Plummer. On Saturday last he went to the residence of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Hamilton, on Robinsonstreet—where he is now lying—and left about eight o'clock to return to the house of Dr. Plummer. While passing up Sandusky-street, immediately opposite the South Common Methodist Episcopal Church, he met an individual on the narrow pathway, who rudely jostled him. Mr. West, not observing the deep raving on his left, stepped a pace or two back, and fell a distance of perhaps thirty feet, reaching the ground in a standing position. A number of young men who were holding a prayer-meeting in the church, were attracted by his cries, and procuring a settee, conveyed him to the residence of Mrs. Hamilton, where Drs. Elliot and Dale rendered him such medical assistance as was in their power. The Reverend gentleman escaped with but slight external injuries, but suffers greatly from internal pain. $66,902.29 $4,855.64 Total.....

Pike's Opena-house—Benefit of Viola Caocken.—The kabilities of the Opera-house will be gratified to learn that this evening has been set apart for the benefit of Viola Crocker. When we consider that this is the last night of the dramatic season, the magnetic power of the programme and the merit of the beneficiarc, we have every reason to believe that the audience will be both large and brilliant. PIKE'S OPERA-HOUSE,—The performance of The Predign! Son, for the benefit of Mr. J. F. Her-bert, drow an excellent audience less night to the Opera-house, and in connection with The Toodies Davidge as "lir. Toothes," kept the audience in the best of moods, and sent it away in the most delight-ful humor. His rendering of the part was admirabelieve that the audience will be both large and brilliant.

Viola Crocker is quite an agreeable actress and has been an exceedingly useful member of the company. It would have been almost impossible to have produced Midsummer Night's Dream without her, for her petite and graceful figure is just adapted to the representation of "Puck," and this, in connection with the illusion caused by the beautiful music and scenery, seemed to suggest the thought, that, like the laughing Hermes she personated, she could full saleep in a violet or nide herself among the petals of a rose.

Her "Ariel" was also an excellent performance, faulty in some respects, but nevertheless excellent, and she seemed so like a spirit that one was inclined to half believe her when she sung:

"Where the bee sucks there lurk I,

PIKE'S OPERA-HOUSE-BENEFIT OF VIOLA

"Where the bee sucks there lark I, In a cowslip's bell I lie."

ful humor. His rendering of the part was admirable slightly overdone, perhaps but nevertheless finished and artistic.

The Predigal Son will be presented this evening for the last time, for the benefit of Viola Crosker. The performance will commence with the causedists of The Smiss Cettage, in which the buneficiare will appear as "Liestle," to be followed by a concert by Messra. Frazer and Maxwell, and conclude with the splendid spectacle which has occupied the stage for the past two weeks.

The programmes is all excellent one, and we exruently hope the audience may fill the house. The fate Viola has added much to the plensure of those who visited this elegant establishment during the past season, and it is meet that at its close she should be greeted by an auditory which should at once be a compliment and a benefit.

Wood's THEATER .-- The audience last night In a cowelly's bell I lie."
Her impersonation of "Marie" in The Marble Heart was one of the most natural we ever saw, and the part was rendered in such a manner as not only to arouse the sympathy of the audieace, but to permanently interest all who witnessed it in the future success of the actress, who could surround the character of the rustic maiden with so much beauty and grace. at this cosy and comfortable place of amusement was large and brilliant. Mr. Booth's impersonation of the "Duke of Gloster" was in many respects the best we over saw, and we say this with a vivid re-collection of the sider Booth's representation of the ame character. Admirably conceived, with a full and just appreciation of his author, all the detail, even the alightest minutia, learned to perfection, the actor merged himself in the creation and seemed of the rustic maiden with so much beauty and grace.

Her representation of the sweet-eyed Jewess, "Jepthele," is beautiful as it is capable of being made, and no one can witness it without feeling the mystic power that saved "Azael," through all his wanderings, from the charms of "Nefte" and the idontries of Memphis, that was his solace in the desert and his reward in the Valley of Gesin. We ardently desire that this earnest and worthy girl may have such an audience as will cause her forever a pleasant memory of the city she is about to leave, and give her substantial evidence that she has made a host of friends, who know how to show their esteem for, and appreciation of her merit in a manner that shall at once he agreeable and substantial. to be the person be represented,

LAW REPORT.

HABEAS CORPUS CASE BEFORE JUDGE HILTON.
MOTION TO COMPEL THE SHERIFF TO BRING THE CHILD MARY ANN BUTLER HYPO COURT.—
At the sitting of this Court yesterday morning an application was made by Mr. McCook, on behalf of Sylvester Gaffney, that the Sheriff should be required to bring Mary Ann Butler (of whom said Gaffney was appointed guardian,) into Court.

Mesers. Abraham and Kerr appeared for the Sheriff, and submitted that the Sheriff was not advised of any order from the Court requiring him to produce the child.

Mr. McCook said that the Sheriff did receive an intimation on the subject, and the HABEAS CORPUS CASE BEFORE JUDGE HILTON.

Mr. McCook said that the Sheriff did receive an intimation on the subject, and the presentation of an order was waived.

Some two hours were consumed by the counsel in discussing the sufficiency of the Sheriff's answer, which was to the effect that a summons having been issued from the Common Pleas, and an undertaking been filed in the usual form for the prosecution of the writ, he had surrendered the child to the party who was the respondent in the habess corpus proceeding.

proceeding.

Mr. McCook insisted that the bond could se taken only in the Court where the record was made up.

Judge Hilton held the answer to be in-taught evinces a degree of promise, added to a fidelity of execution and anartistic excellence, that we very rarely find in youth, even after arduous studies.

"Dover Plains" represents an elevated foreground, with several large trees and rocks, on which are two human figures—a farmer's son and daughter it may be—with cattle grazing below them. The ground slopes off into a valley, with a pool on the margin, verging to a dead half-bare level, with low and thickly-studded trees; while on the other side and far off arise green and beautiful hills, encircled by a faint violet mist that lends a delicious air of repose and beauty to the scene. The sky is patched with clouds, as in mid-summer, and the faint beams of the sun are lighting up the East with a beautiful morning tint. There is an almost perceptible languor in the air, a semblance of perfect repose and stillness, as one gazes through the valley and off to the blue summits of the distant hills, that brings the beholder at once into sympathy with the picture and with nature. While gazing at it, we fancied ourselves walking pensively along the valley, wrapped in amood of speculative spirituality, and imbibling the silent poetry of the scene.

"Dover Plains" pleases us much—and we are not easily pleased—and the scope and spirit, the completeness and finish of the picture have agreeably surprised us; for, though we have watched Mr. Lindsay's career of late with no little interest, we were not prepared for the excellence he has here displayed. We wish him the realization of all that his present foreshadows, and are only too happy to place a tiny laurel upon a brow that has, under the most adverse circumstances, been lifted to the cesthetic sphere and been embraced by the charming curves of the ideal.

Attempted Sukunes—A soung mes avents Insert Lows sufficient, but said he would give the parties time to tender a bond in this Court, and adjourned until this afternoon for that purpose. APTERNOON PROCEEDINGS.

Mr. Kerr stated that he was now ready to air. Kerr stated that he was now ready to give bounds for the prosecution of the writ of error, not that he was dissatisfied with what had been already done, or of opinion that the proceedings already had were insufficient to operate as a supersedeas, but because he was anxious to accommodate himself to any order the Court might make.

W. McCook contended that there could not be a stay of execution without the authority.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE-A SICK MAN SWAL-

W. McCook contended that there could not be a stay of execution without the authority of a special statute, particularly in a proceeding of this kind, where the effect was to restrain a party of ilberty which the Judge of this Court had said that party was entitled.

Mr. Kerr replied that where no direct remedy was pointed out by the provisions of the Code, this Court, by analogy with the old practice, might give the remedy.

The Court said that with a view that the law might do its perfect work, and that the rights of all parties might be protected, he had arrived at the conclusion upon reading the whole section, that any final order of this Court being clearly subject to review or reversal in the Court of Common Pleas, and that Court having examined the transcript and allowed the writ of error, a supersectes might take effect on the giving of hand—the hond to be given in this Court ATTEMPTED SUICIDE—A SIGK MAN SWALLOWS POISON.—A young man named James Dilman, residing on Liberty-street, near Sycamore, yesterday made an attempt to destroy himself by taking a large dose of tincture of opium. He has been jill for some weeks, and seems to have entirely despaired of recovery. Several times he has threatened to destroy himself, but his friends have watched him so closely that no opportunity presented itself.

Being left alone for some time yesterday, while the family was at dinner, he arose from his bed, by a Herculean effort reached the mantelpiece, and almost emptied a phial of his bed, by a Herculean effort reached the mantelpiece, and almost emptied a phial of laudanum, which had inadvertently been left thereon. He then returned to his bed and lay dowa with the expectation of breathing gently out his life; but some persons entered the room shortly afterward, and, happening to notice the disappearance of the narcotic, suspected that he had taken it, and immediately sent for his physician, who, by the application of the stomach-pump, relieved his system of the poisonous drug.

His emaciated condition and the effect of his late disease, from which he had not fully recovered, preclude all hopes of his ultimate recovery. Wearied of the life which he avers is a burthen not only to himself but his persedes might take effect on the giving of bond—the bond to be given in this Court of bond—the bond to be given in this Court—and upon ample freshold security being given, until the proper tribunal shall have adjudicated upon the case, I am willing to approve of it.

A bond was then executed, Benjamin Eggleston and N. W. Thomas being sureties, and this being accepted, the proceeding terminated

The child now remains in the custody of Mr. Weightman until the second day of June, when the case comes before the Common when Pleas.

Faightful Accident to a Little Gial.—A little daughter of Mrs. Emlington, residing on Third-street, near the Whitewater Canal, yesterday afternoon fell from a porch at the rear of the house and broke her hack. The injury she received does not render death inevitable; but if she should happen to recover she will doubtless be deformed for life.

BOOK NOTICES.

THE BIBLICAL REASON WHY, pp. 22, New York: Dies & Firmunal Clincinnell: Rickey, Mallory Co.

This book, designed, the title page informs us, as a family guide to Scripture reading, and as a hand book for biblical students, is illustrated with numerous engravings for the further elucidation of all perglexing points. We have run through the volume, and have no doubt those who require such a work will be satisfied with it, for it is vary orthodox, and probably does the best it can in the way of explanation, though we doubt if any one would be wiser of the Bible after committing the entire contents of this book to memory. The explanations are more earnest than original or necessary, and the giver thereof seems to regard those fated to become his readers very much as children at infant school—a fact that may prove the correctness of his anticipa-act that may prove the correctness of his anticipa-ion and the excellence of his intuitions. THE BAREFOOTED MAIDEN, A TALE By BENTROLD ANNHARCH—P.D. 200. Boston: James Munroe & Co. Cincinnalit Bickey, Mailtony & Co. The Barefooted Maiden is a simple tale for young errome, translated from the German by Him Buckminstel-Lee, and is quite neatly illustrated. The story is clearly and well told and boneficial in its summy. It has the German conductive and repulse in its name. ancies and gental in its nature. It has the Ger nan merit of candor, added to wholes plicity and ence.

Great First in Japan—Loss $250,000.—

The Japan correspondent of the Moston Traeseller says that, on the morning of December 26, the storehouses and offices of two prominent merchants of Nagasaki were destroyed by fire; one loser was the American Consul, Mr. F. G. Walsh; the other establishment belonged to Messrs. David Sassorn & Co. The property destroyed is estimated at $150,000 for Mr. Walsh, and $250,000 for the other firm. At 7 A. M. everything was burnt to the ground. The Governor and suite were present, and also any quantity of Japanese, with wooden engines, with a single action, throwing water by jerks about thirty feet. Also a number of Japanese with huge fans placed on the adjoining houses, and fanning the fire to keep it away. The fire dresses of the officials, of which there were some thousands on the ground, were of the utmost magnificence, and the whole scene of the flames, and the brilliant and splendid clothing of the Japanese, formed a picture that must be witnessed to be appreciated. The foreigners are now about to organize themselves into a fire brigade.

A Monarch's Eppers at Auction.—In New York, on Thursday, there was an auction sale of vases once owned by Louis Philippe. In the list was a vase of Dresdan China, of the shape and size of a medium punch-bowl, and elegantly mounted. It bears the stamp of Sevres, besides the impress of the words "Palace" and the "Tuilleries," to counterfeit which used to be felony. On one side is a representation of two cupids, holding between them a flower wreath, and beneath a crown, over the initials P. L. The vase has been mended several times, and was purchased by an elderly Frenchman. et that Frenchman.

On Wednesday, at Jeffersonville, Ark., on the St. Francis River, an affray occurred between two esteemed young men, Wm. Hadden and Lewis Webster, in which Hadden was stabbed and almost instantly killed. Webster was arrested, tried before a committing magistrate and acquitted. Carriage Theows Over a Bank.—Night before last, some young men, residing in Newport, hired a carriage and horse from Col. Smalley, for the purpose of attending a ball in Covington. As the dance lasted rather late, the driver, who had imbibed so freely that he became somewhat oblivious, concluded to return without his passengers, and in so doing, went down Third-street instead of Fourth, to the Licking, and in the darkness drove over a bank about forty feet high and nearly perpendicular. The carriage was badly broken, and the horse injured, but the driver escaped unhurt.

Mr. Fitch offered a resolution directing the proper acting officers of the Treasury to settle the accounts of Randolph Clay, Minister to Peru. Referred.

Mr. Wilson's resolution is reference to the suppression of the slave trade was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. Sumner presented supplementary papers to the memorial of Wm. Sanborn, containing authenticated copies of the writ of habeus corpis in the case of his discharge. Mr. Sumner alluded to the fact that there was no resisting a mob, as previous stated in the Senate, unless it was by the kidnapper who arrested Mr. Sanborn.

The special Committee knew that Ex-Gov. Wise was in possession of important facts relating to the Harper's Ferry affair, which he would not disclose for rubies, and threw down the challenge to the Committee and the country that he would not appear, yet he was not summoned, and two Northern men, who knew nothing about the affair, were arrested and put in jail, and another kidnapped.

Mr. Masou said as far as he spoke of the actions of the Committee the Senator knew nothing of them. The Committee would report in due time.

Mr. Sumner replied that Mr. Wise was not kidnapped or hand-cuffed, a fact apparent to all. The papers and memorials were laid on the table.

The Pryor and Potter Difficulty.

The Pryer and Potter Difficulty.

Washington, April 13.—It is understood that Mr. Potter replied to Mr. Pryor's first note that he would receive any message that might be sent him in the District.

Mr. Pryor asked him if he would accept a challenge, to which Mr. Potter replied he would inform him whenever a challenge reached him. Mr. Pryor then sent him a challenge, to which Mr. Potter replied, referring him to Col. Lander to make the necessary arrangements. These terms as necessary arrangements. These terms, as proposed by Col. Lander to T. E. Chisman, were, that Mr. Potter, though disclaiming allegiance to the code, would fight Mr. Pryor in any place, in doors or out, in the District, with Bowie-knives. This was declined, on the ground that the weapons were barbarous and inhuman, and not usual among gentlemen.

To this Col. Lander replied that Mr. Potter To this Col. Lander replied that Mr. Potter detested the whole system of duciling as barbarous and inhuman, but being called to account for the exercise of free speech on the floor of the House, he consented, not being acustomed to the usual weapons of the ducilist, to meet him in a way that would place them on equal terms, and to name the time, place and weapons; but as the weapons named by Mr. Potter were objected to, Col. Lander, without Mr. Potters knowledge, tendered himself to Mr. Pryor without restriction, which was also declined on the ground that he had no quarrel with Col. Lander.

Precolomini's RETIREMENT FROM THE LYRIC Precolomin's Rethement from the Lyric Stage.—This popular vocalist brought a fortnight's engagement in Dublin to a close on Saturday evening, by appearing for her own benefit in the opera of Martha. She had for some days prior been laboring under a severe cold, and when the curtain rose she came forward and said, "Kind Friends: This may be the last time that I will ever appear before you. I am very ill, indeed; but I have tried to come here to see you again; I can only sing very badly. You have always been very good to me; will you pardon my faults to-night? I shall do my best." It is needless to say that this appeal was responded faults to-night? I shall do my best," It is needless to say that this appeal was responded to with the best feeling, and with loud applause. It was evident that Mad'lle Piccolomini did "do her best," for it was surprising with how much spirit the character was sustained despite the obvious suffering which completely destroyed her ordinary powers. It was the triumph of skill and talent over physical difficulties.

Confession of Murder After Fifteen Years Secretor.—The Boston Journal of late date says that a man named Weed, recently returned from California to Sandwich, New Hampshire, confessed upon his dying bed that he and another man were the murderers of Mr. Parker, of Manchester, in 1845. Mr. Parker, the murdered man, at the time of his death, tax collector for Manchester, was called out one night on the pretence that he was wanted at a house, the road to which laid through a tract of woods, and on the way thither was murdered. The murder created great excitement at the time, and two men were subsequently tried twice on the charge of being the murderers, but escaped conviction. conviction.

REMARKABLE BAPTISMAL SUPERSTITION IN REMARKABLE BAPTIMAL SUPERSYTTION IN RUSSIA.—While at St. Petersburg, I was present at a scene which surprised me.
